What are C60 Fullerenes?

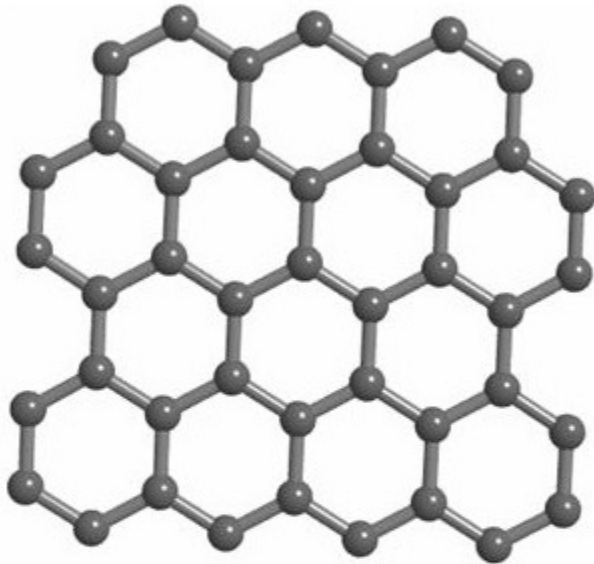

C60 Fullerenes are a newly discovered natural carbon molecule in the shape of a spherical ball, made of sixty carbon atoms, discovered in 1985. It is important to note that they were "discovered", not "created".

Since its discovery, C60 has taken the medical & scientific research world by storm.

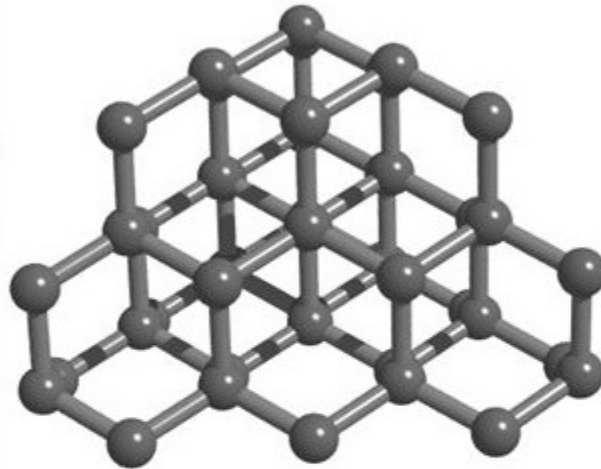

Countless studies have shown that C60 Fullerene Molecules (also nick named "Buckyballs") exhibit incredible potential uses in biology and medicine, including UV and radioprotection, antioxidant activities, free radical scavengers, antiviral & antibacterial, allergic response inhibitions, immune stimulating and anti-tumour effects, medicine delivery, and even hair-growing activity.

The Confusion around the word "Nanoparticles"

[nan-oh-pahr-ti-kuh l, ney-noh-]

noun

a microscopic particle of matter that is measured on the nanoscale, usually one that measures less than 100 nanometers.

How big is a "nanometer"?

1 millimeter = 1 000 000 nanometers

Example: A Molecule!

All molecules are "Nanoparticles". It does not matter if it is a molecule of C60 or diamond or iron, or oxygen. They are all "Nanoparticles".

Scientists in the field of biology and medicine have done a massive amount of studies, research, experimentation and lab work on C60. The vast majority of studies show that there is no toxicity levels for C60, whether it is ingested, inhaled, injected, or applied topically. Further, each attempt to find a "Toxicity" level has brought forward more amazing medical discoveries, even when those results were un-looked for by the initial experiments. Lab rats were fed vast quantities of C60, yet were not poisoned. Not only were they not poisoned, they show remarkable health....

... and the journey to discovering a multitude of health benefits of C60 truly took off.

At Gaea's Garden, we have created a C60 Research page, and have compile a vast amount of research studies and links on the proven health benefits of C60 fullerenes. We continuously update this page, as new information and studies become available.

The Search for the Perfect Delivery System

I am always searching for one special ingredient: The Perfect Delivery System

Lotions and oils applied to the skin can only absorb a certain depth into the upper layers of the epidermis and many skincare ingredients only absorb through the top layer of dead skin cells... the rest just lays on the surface of the skin, giving the illusion of “moisture”. When we look at where skin problems begin, be it acne, wrinkles, eczema, or even allergic dermatitis, it almost always starts in the deeper layers of our skin, where oils and essential oils really cannot reach. The ultimate goal is to find a natural ingredient that will act as a carrier, to deliver the oils and essential essences deeper into the skin, to target problems where they usually begin.

Major scientific and medical studies have shown that C60 IS the Perfect Delivery System!

C60 Fullerenes, are a newly discovered natural Carbon molecule in the shape of a spherical ball, made of sixty carbon atoms. Countless studies have shown that C60 Fullerene Molecules (also nick named “Buckyballs”) exhibit incredible potential uses in biology and medicine, including UV and radioprotection, antioxidant activities, free radical scavengers, antiviral & antibacterial, allergic response inhibitions, immune stimulating and anti-tumour effects, gene delivery, and even hair-growing activity.

During the past over 20 years that I have been making and researching natural skincare, I have been searching for the “ultimate delivery system”. Let me explain: When we are dealing with the skin, no matter if it’s on your face or your feet, no matter if it’s the highest quality oils and essences or cheap crappy lotion from the dollar store, whatever you apply to the skin will only absorb a certain depth into the layers of the skin. Various oil molecules have different ratios of absorption and the size and shape of the molecules have a large effect on just how deeply they will saturate the skins outer tissue. For example, mineral oil is found in almost EVERY commercial body/facial moisturizer on the planet- it’s a cheap filler. Mineral oils has quite a large molecule and only absorbs through the very top layer of dead skin cells... the rest just lays on the surface of the skin, giving the illusion of “moisture”. When we look at where skin problems begin, be it acne, wrinkles, eczema, or even allergic dermatitis, it almost always starts in the deeper epidermis layers of our skin, where oils and essential oils really cannot reach. So we treat the surface epidermis the best that we can, and continuously search for a delivery system that will allow for deeper penetration of oils and essences, delivering the “package” to the tissues that really need it most.

There have been contenders for the position of delivery driver, but most have been made with highly questionable
